John, Ann, Bob,

Any chance we could reach out to Missouri to ask about this? It'd be really helpful to know whether they have the discharger-specific data available now and didn't post it, or whether they're planning to collect it later, and how/when they're planning to add dischargers to the variance.

Thanks,

Noah

Hi folks,

As promised, I checked MDNR's website, and I couldn't find any other appendices.

It's starting to look like Missouri has opted to leave all of the discharger-specific information out of this public notice draft, leaving placeholder references to “Appendices X-X” which would presumably include that information.

What’s not clear to me is how or when they plan to incorporate it. They could conceivably collect that information from dischargers at some point in the near future, incorporate it into the variance, and then submit it to EPA. They might also be planning to submit the variance to EPA as-is, then add dischargers to it on a rolling basis.

I’ll work with Region 7 to see if we can get further information from Missouri.

Thanks,

Noah
